IT TAKES SHEER ENERGY

O.k. people. Are you ready? Are you sure you have everything you need? Don't forget—what you're about to do requires your utmost attention and effort. So take your phone off the hook. You'll need plenty of room, a radio/mtv, and your most comfortable clothing to allow for easy movement. You may opt to do it with one close friend or a large group of friends. Remember to go through each exercise thoroughly: Social Life, Activities, Academics, Sports, Underclass, Seniors, and Faculty. When flipping through the pages, remember to keep arms relaxed and to breathe deeply after each section. The BHS Workout basically concentrates on stretching the imagination and toning the memory. So only attempt it if you're absolutely sure you're up to it.

Ready? Here we go . . .

KEVIN CHERNETT AND Steve Schneider are good friends.

THERE'S MORE HERE THAN MEETS THE EYE

Beachwood students have always been known for their laidback attitudes. However, looks can be deceiving. Their easy-going nature is merely a facade. Underneath it all, BHS is bursting with energy and excitement. Almost every student is involved in something or other.

IN KAREN BURKE'S eyes, Beachwood High is just another reason to smile.

SHAWN LINDSEY TRIES to remember the name of the song on his walkman.

AFTER RUNNING THE mile in gym, Earl King, Pruitt Petty, and Vince King know how exhilarating a physical workout can be.

The BHS workout demands maximum effort whether it be mental, physical, or social. Taking a closer look at Beachwood students, it becomes evident that they participate in a rigorous workout every day.

THE SOCIAL WORKOUT

1. Color coordinate your socks and swatches.
2. Find out when your parents are going out of town (just out of curiosity, of course).
3. Coincidentally transfer into the 4th period English lit. class—ya know, the one that gorgeous new guy just happens to be in.
4. Find out when the cafeteria is serving fish nuggets.
5. Find a new job—one that doesn't involve money 'cause that's too confusing.
6. Sexually drop by Geeky's and see if there are any stranded freshmen girls that you can drive home.
7. Call Julie and tell her not to tell anyone, but Amy said that Cindy said she heard from Michael who heard from Bobby that Blane thinks he MIGHT ask her to Homecoming.
8. Get a nose job—tell everyone that you had to because you had a deviated septum.

The summer of '85 proved to be an exciting season for BHS students. Many students traveled abroad to Israel or different European countries. For those unable to expand their cultural horizons in foreign lands, various activities occupied their time. Mentor Headlands was the place to be to have fun in the sun. While getting a savage tan on this beach, one was bound to meet the best looking guys and girls around. If one could not make it out to the beach, there was always the Beachwood Pool or tennis courts. On those unfortunate rainy days, students could be found with mom's credit cards in hand at Beachwood Place Mall. All in all, BHS students found many exciting activities to pass the time during the summer of '85

ESPRIT

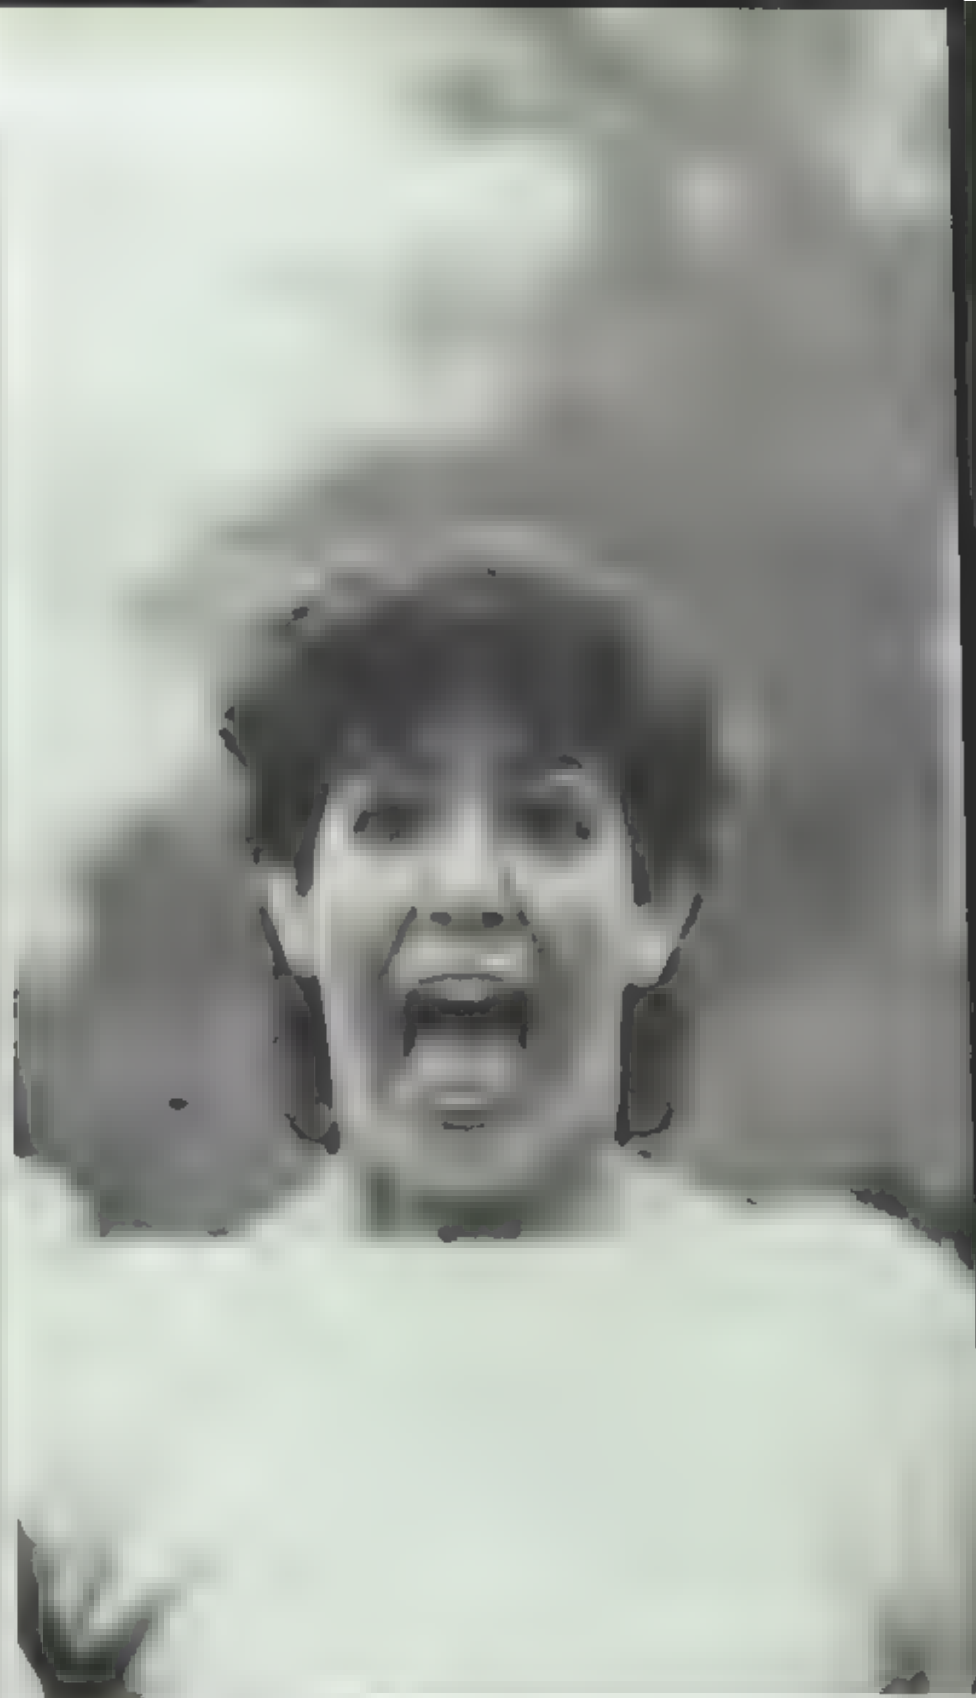

"Yes, yes, yes, we do, we've got spirit how 'bout you?" Who does have the most spirit at BHS? Well, that was a hard decision for the year of 1986. For the first time ever there was a tie. The two lucky winners were the class of '87 and the faculty. In a fun filled week in February, all four classes and the faculty competed to prove their academic and athletic ability. This year's spirit week had more of an academic tendency than in the past, including events such as trivial pursuit, class feud, and academic challenge. Among the athletic events were tug-of-war, obstacle course, and foul shooting. The sophomore class was most spirited, the frosh put forth a good effort, the seniors well, who knows what happened to them, and the juniors and the faculty got the privileged title of Spirit Week champi-

A STAR IS BORN

Homecoming 1985 was held on the weekend of October 18th-19th, but the excitement began long before. It all started on October 2 when elections were held for the twelve homecoming queen finalists. At an assembly two days later, they were escorted out of the audience and onto the stage by various senior lettermen. The saga continued as elections narrowed the number of finalists to six, then to three. A second assembly was held on October 18th at which the student body was given one last look at the three final candidates before voting procedures that day. By this time, the students were becoming restless awaiting the weekend's festivities. Friday night everyone was invited to watch Alfred Hitchcock's thriller, "The Birds." On Saturday, students and their families cheered on the Bison soccer and football teams, but to everyone's great despair, both games were lost in the final moments. During halftime of the football game, the crowd waited anxiously to hear that, "The 1985 Homecoming Queen is . . . Margie Einhorn!"

"CALM DOWN MARGIE, you're embarrassing me!" says Kris Rae.

THE RAIN MAY dampen their clothes, but these loyal fans won't let it dampen their spirits.

ONE OF THE twelve finalists, Darcy Ferber, is escorted by David Arnold and Anthony Norwood at the first homecoming assembly.

STAR LIGHT, STAR BRIGHT

After long hours of primping, the couples arrived at the high school for the formal dance where they discovered the cafeteria in its transformed state. Stars and streamers decorated the walls and ceiling in accordance with the theme "Weekend Under the Stars!" A problem with the intended band seemed disastrous. However, the evening turned out quite successful and all were entertained by the popular band, "Wild Horses." The crowning of the new homecoming queen occurred at 10 p.m. after which the couples continued dancing and socializing until 11 p.m. when they left for dinner and more celebration.

JEFF OLIVER AND Deshawn Whitaker smile as they agree that homecoming was worth the $13.00 cost of the ticket.

DAY IN—DAY OUT

"Honey, wake up. Aren't you going to school today?" are the words that interrupt you right in the middle of the best dream of your life. You look at your alarm clock and notice that it is half an hour later than you usually wake up for school. You frantically jump out of bed, spazzing at your mother as you rush to catch your bus.

When you arrive at school, you proceed to take a never-ending journey to your locker. You finally get there and start to think about the English test you bombed yesterday. You are half-way to your first period class when the second bell rings. You have to make a quick decision: you could run all the way to your class, looking like a fool, or you could coolly walk in late and tell your teacher that your dog ran away before school, and you had to catch him . . . you choose the first one. You then spend the next four periods studying for the Algebra II test that you totally forgot about.

Finally, lunchtime arrives and you smell the delicious scent of piping hot french fries. You charge through the cafeteria to reach the lunch line, only to find that thirty other students ran there before you. The moment you sit down to eat your food, the bell rings. As you finish your food, almost choking to death, you run to your locker and grab your books for your afternoon classes.

You get to class and immediately begin to watch the clock, hoping the bell will release you from this everlasting boredom. Finally, ninth period arrives, and you futilely attempt to keep your eyes open. Eventually, you give up and fall into a deep sleep. The bell rings, and quickly you head out to the bus. The day is over. Although you are relieved, you are quite aware that there are still 179 more days till summer!!!

Student: Mom, can I borrow some money?

Mother: Dear, I told you, you're not borrowing anymore money. I think you're old enough to go out and get a job

Student: But Mom, I don't wanna work!

Does this sound familiar to you? Of course it does. Every Beachwood student eventually reaches that depressing age when mom and dad will no longer give them their credit cards to go out and buy the trendiest new outfits Beachwood Place has to offer—that fateful moment when one must go out and seek employment. Although everyone dreaded those tedious applications and that frightening first interview, in the long run, there were many advantages. I mean, after all, the clothes stores gave 20-40% discounts to all their employees, and Baskin Robbins gave free ice-cream. “Well,” Joe Student says, “Working is not so bad after all! PEOPLE & PLACES

Throughout the year, B.H.S. students spent a great deal of time at various hang-outs. Between the hours of 11:00 P.M. and 12:00 A.M., Corky and Lenny's Delicatessen was the number one place to go. It proved to be a gathering place for everyone to catch a bite to eat and discuss the great parties they went to that evening. Some other popular weekend spots were Coventry, Chagrin Falls, or the movies. During the week, students left school during free periods and lunchtime and headed out to Burger King, McDonald's, or Beachwood Place to eat and discuss the latest school gossip. Students needing a relaxing evening were frequently seen at such quiet spots as Coventry's Arabica or believe it or not—the Beachwood Library!! All these popular hang-outs, plus many others, made up the usual social workout of 1985-86

"My first impression of Beachwood is that it has an outstanding school system with a community which is very supportive of its programs," said Dr. Robert J. Monson Jr., new superintendent of schools, in a recent interview with the Beachcomber.

Dr. Monson things the school board is at the forefront of educational thinking and is "more concerned with quality than anything else."

He said he was also impressed with the enthusiasm of the staff and students.

In August Dr. Monson signed a 33-month contract with the board effective Nov. 1. He is completing his duties in the interim as assistant superintendent for secondary education of the south Orange-Maplewood Schools in New Jersey. His salary will be $65,000 the first year.

Dr. Monson said that between Nov. 1 and Jan. 1, he will be listening to students, teachers, parents, administrators and community members in informal, small group meetings. He also will sit in on some classes and will frequently be seen in the school buildings.

Then after the first of next year, he will focus his attention on curriculum and the way in which it is delivered.

Dr. Monson, 38, has spent the past four years in his present post in New Jersey where he has had responsibility for more than 3,200 students and staff alike. He was previously principal of Chapel Hill, N.C., High School, which has an enrollment of 1,300 students. From 1975 to 1978 he was an administrator at Mamaroneck, N.Y., High School, where he was responsible for more than 1,000 students and staff.

Now he is looking forward to his new challenge as administrator of a small district of 1,200 students. "There are advantages and disadvantages in a small system," he said. "On the positive side, people can get to know each other. It is easier to communicate with the community because you can do it on a face-to-face basis."

"However, you are restricted by what you can offer. You don't always have the necessary resources. There isn't always enough variety in the people and programs."

Yet, he considers Beachwood an atypical system.

"It has a lot more going for it than most other districts," he said. "The money this community puts into its system shows how much they care for it."

He stressed that there is always room for improvement.

"Beachwood has a great system, but I hope to bring it to the next level of educational excellence," he said.

The key to improvement, he believes, is working with teachers, students and administrators. He wants to be involved so as to be well-informed within the system.

Dr. Monson comes to Beachwood after a 17-month search to replace former superintendent, Dr. Bernard Weiss.

According to Michael Kleinman, the board solicited proposals from several search teams before hiring Harold Webb & Associates of Evanston, Ill. The team, which included a former superintendent and specialized in searches for school districts, had impressive credentials and a good understanding of the district, Kleinman said. And it was relatively inexpensive.

The firm received more than 100 applications which were narrowed to 16. Webb and his associate, Dr. Karl Plath, personally interviewed all 16, then whittled this number to six.

"The board took over from there," said Kleinman. "We made reference checks and credential checks. We interviewed all six finalists. We narrowed this down even further and the board unanimously chose Dr. Monson."

From this point, he continued, three board members went to New Jersey to talk to community members, staff, local newspaper persons and administrators.

"We all felt that Dr. Monson is capable of providing sound leadership for the district as an educational leader," said Kleinman.

Marvin Sicherman, Board president, echoed his statement.

"We were committed to find the best possible man for the job. Everyone was satisfied with the decision," Sicherman said.

SILVER SUCCESS

1985, as most of you know, marked the 25th anniversary of Beachwood High School. Last year's Oculus exemplified this milestone by incorporating pictures, fads, and historical events from the past. This year's Oculus, while only including the four final anniversary months, recognized an event which occurred September 27 and 28 to celebrate the school's birthday. The festivities were none other than "Silver Success"

In honor of the celebration, a committee consisting of select students, faculty, and administrators, chose twelve Beachwood alumni who had made a mark somehow in the world. They were not necessarily financially successful but rather successful in aiding mankind.

These alumni came to the school Friday morning and attended a breakfast followed by an all school assembly. After the luncheon for the honoree's and their families, the alumni spoke individually about their careers. These sessions proved very worthwhile for most students. The careers ranged from a T.V. soap opera writer, a narcotics agent, and an environmentalist.

Then on Saturday, a reception tent was erected to honor the guests. Refreshments were served to the whole community. Afterwards, everyone sat back and enjoyed the Bison football game as Beachwood defeated Berkshire. It is hoped that this event will be repeated in future years, and that many more alumni will enter into the "Gallery of Success."

THE TWELVE HONOREES wait patiently for their turn to speak during the all-school assembly on Friday.

ACTING ANIMATING AND AMUSING

The Drama club was a very exciting club this year. Mrs. Phelps headed the club along with President Richie Weiss. To become a thespian one had to be actively involved in the school plays, and a certain amount of points were rewarding. In crediting the drama club, one musn't forget the technical crew. Working at plays, concerts, and youth theaters, they provided the lighting, sound, and visual effects. The club's greatest accomplishment of the year was the intense play, Cabaret, directed by Michael and Harnet LiBassi. The costumes were provided by Debbie Hanzl, and a group of professionals provided the sets. Much hard work was put into this production—hard work which was reflected in this play. Congratulations Drama Club on a successful year

COMPUTING CONNECTING AND COMPETING

A long time ago, in a humble suburb called Beachwood, a group of ten determined students embarked on planes of mathematics unknown to most mortals. Under the guidance of their beloved mentor, Alan Hanzl, the class accomplished many great things, among them a field trip to Mama Santa's restaurant and pizzeria. Todd Sachs was the MVP of the first semester, while David Saltzman, who was removed from the class in a bloody mid-year skirmish, was chosen Most Improved Player. Jon Jaffery was awarded special recognition as the teacher's pet. Ostensibly, these students were preparing for the B.C. form of the AP calc test, but really the class was just an excuse for non-stop parties, arrogance, and insults.

The new and improved AFS club took off with the help of new advisor, Debbie Hanzl. Monthly club meetings were held with the help of club officers Sara Bernstein, President; Lisa Barson, Vice President; and Jenna Wax, Secretary. They also planned several successful events including a beach party and a welcome party for this year's AFS students, Florence LeMaire from France and Antonio Paton from Spain.

This year's Chess Club was new and revised. The advisor was James Waltrip III, who organized the Greater Cleveland School Chess League. Without his help, this league would not have been possible. This year marks the way for a stable club for many years to come.

CREATING COMPOSING AND CAPTURING

This year's Beachcomber and Introspect staffs have succeeded in producing an outstanding newspaper and literary magazine. The Beachcomber has covered many controversial issues in the school as well as in the community. The editors that made the Beachcomber possible were Stuart Friedman and June Weiler. A lot of investigative reporting and hard work was put forth. The Introspect published student art work, poetry, and prose. It was the outlet for the creative side of the students. It consisted of a very small staff, but editor Laura Schubach helped lead it to its success.

APPLYING ADVANCING AND ACHIEVING

National Honor Society: Community, service, leadership, scholarship. According to NHS, every member must somehow exemplify these qualities. And that is what NHS is all about. It is a community activity, where each member does some sort of individual service for the good of the whole. The members are scholars and leaders, not only excelling in academics but also holding key positions in nearly every extra-curricular activity. The students are selected by teachers to be member of this organization. National Honor Society: combining four important qualities in recognizing the community's future leaders.

Another honorary group is Quill and Scroll. Members are chosen by the advisors of the newspaper, the literary magazine, and the yearbook. High staff position helps determine those eligible.

MARCHING MASTERING AND MARVELING

A winning football team, the greatest number of members in history, and new uniforms at Homecoming sparked the Beachwood High School Marching Band into a highly successful season. Led by band president Jon Jaffery and senior officers Louise Gottlob, Bari Berkens, Carey Arnold, David Saltzman, Marla Bornstein, and Tammy Blau, the band captivated halftime audiences with dazzling maneuvers created by the director, Mr. Ron Papaleo. The band began its summer with a week long excursion to camp Conestoga in Minerva, Ohio, where newcomers learned the marching basics and everyone learned the first performance. The band worked hard on a nearly sixteen hour schedule with brief interludes of free time, and the discipline was reflected in the performances throughout the year. In all, it was the most successful band year in BHS history.

The stage band provided lively entertainment throughout the year at both school and city functions. They gave several concerts at the school and also performed at many school assemblies. In addition, the stage band entertained the public at both the Terminal Tower and the Home & Flower Show. As usual, the stage band, with a tradition of excellence, provided quality entertainment and enjoyment for all.

THINKING THRIVING AND THRILLING

Five remarkably knowledgeable young people have elevated the Whiz Quiz and Academic Challenge to an unprecedented level of intellectual achievement. Driven by their motto "victory is Destiny," captain Kris Rao, along with Jon Ratner and Andy Levitt, moved ever forward toward their goal, receiving invaluable assistance from alternates Jon Kleinman and Jenny Wamsley, as well as advisor Gene Sotsky.

The studios of WEWS TV-5 were the arena as the team embarrassed challengers from Lumen Cordum and Brookside high schools, scoring four hundred points. Later, these intrepid warriors dared to confront Hathaway Brown on the WERE Whiz Quiz and emerged victorious by a score of 700-250 (the highest score to date during the season). This quasi-miraculous score qualified the team for the playoffs and scholarship competition.

Other mental pioneers ventured to Shaker Heights High School for the annual Academic Decathlon. The team, consisting of Marc Wolfe (alternate for the absent Howard West), Laura Schubach, Cindy Young, Dennis Lockshine, Phil Weiler, and Michael Frayman, as well as alternates Karen Sternheimer and David Streem, faced over thirty schools in several areas. As well as written tests in Math, English, Economics, the Arts, Social Sciences, and Natural Sciences, each student was judged on a speech and a personal interview. The day culminated in the pressure-laden Super Quiz which puts the teams directly against one another. Beachwood's decathletes can be proud of their impressive performance against monstrously over prepared teams.

CHEERING CHANTING AND CHARMING

"B-I-S-O-N-S!" The chants of the Beachwood cheerleaders were a familiar sound at sporting events and pep assemblies. The Freshman squad advisor was Beverly Seman. The Junior Varsity squad was led by captains Ronna Horowitz and Lori Pollak and advisor Michelle Mouns. Captains Lisa Novack and Lauri Jacobson headed the Varsity squad with the help of advisor Donna Thompson. All the squads put in many hours of hard work to be the spiritual leaders of B H S. New to the Varsity Squad was male cheerleader Howard West. Being a newcomer to the world of spirit promotion, there were some difficulties in the beginning. However, problems were resolved and he became a familiar face to the crowd. The enthusiasm and charm of all the squads consistently raised the morale of all Bison fans.

DECLARING DEBATING AND DECIDING

This year Beachwood had the most delegates that ever participated in the Junior Council on World Affairs. Headed again by Gail Brewster and president Michael Bruder, the club continued its winning streak, impressing the country at the National Convention in Washington D.C., where Beachwood delegates represented Italy and Venezuela. Earlier in the fall, Beachwood captured a best delegation award as well as an honorable mention at the Dayton University Conference and an honorable mention at the Gannon University Conference. The JCWA team proved its superior ability once again during the 1985-1986 school year.

This year's debate team proved to be successful again, as it qualified for the state tournament. The club was headed by advisor Chris Miller and president Andy Levitt. The group was the most well-rounded ever, consisting of participants in two man debate, four man debate, extemporaneous speaking, duet acting, and oral interpretation.

PRACTICING PERFORMING AND PLEASING

The drill team and majorettes marched their way through yet another season. The drill team consisted of ten new members and five old. This was a large obstacle the girls had to overcome through the year. Captain Mindy Hersh led the team to success at the Kenston Drill Team Competition. The Bisonettes received two first place trophies. The majorettes condensed their team to just three people: Kathy Klein, the captain, Darci Cramer, the co-captain; and Renee Smith, the twirler. They were seen performing at the football games along with the drill team and marching band.

They're back! After a brief absence from the BHS curriculum the Golddiggers are back and here to stay. They are directed by music teacher Jill Phelps and dance teacher Ida Porris. The group is easily recognized by their sporty sweat outfit and tennis shoes. Songs range from ballads to upbeat dance tunes. This year the Golddiggers could be seen performing with the stage band or at various luncheons and nursing homes. Another small but important part of BHS is the vocal ensemble. This group is also directed by Jill Phelps. They practiced hard everyday during school to prepare for their performances with the concert band.

REACTING REASONING AND RELATING

The 1985-1986 student council was characterized by great diversity. The members of the council were eager to express their great variety of opinions and aggressively questioned traditional policies. The meetings were noted for their long heated discussions which often caused them to run overtime or adjourn before the agenda had been finished. Debates ranged from the student council overnight to parliamentary procedure. Two important new policies were originated, the total communication program was given representation in the council, and a committee against drunk driving was established within the council. On the lighter side, the council organized two very successful formals and several successful Friday night dances. They also held an enthusiastic spirit week in February which was more academically oriented than usual. Overall, the divergence within the council did not inhibit their success; instead, it enhanced it by forcing the council to question old traditions and start some new ones of their own.

MAKE YOUR BODY WORK

The 1985-86 Cross Country team ran up its most impressive season ever, surpassing last year's record by seven victories. The team ended the season with an 8-3 record. In the team's spotlight was Phil Weiler, a four-year member and winner of districts. The team also featured returning distance runners, seniors Jon Ratner, Eric R. Marks, and Jason Greenwald. Sophomore sensations James Gilmore, Evan Marks, and Brian Novack. This season also saw the return of a surprising spectacle, girls! Female members were Alyson Spira, Rachel November, Cindy Farkas, and Tracy Benkowitz. Congratulations goes to Coach Gilmore for the finest Cross Country season ever.

The girls varsity volleyball team ended the 1985 season with a record of 4-15. As a young team, the girls had a respectable season. They earned praise from schools that never thought that a Beachwood girl's team could be competitive. In post-season action, the sectional tournament, they won the first round, but then were defeated the second seeded team. Good luck, Lady Bisons!

SOCCER

The 1985 soccer team under head coach Joe Burwell and assistant coach Peter Harvan had a most memorable season. The Bisons were undefeated in their first thirteen games. This included first time ever victories over Shaker and Oberlin, and a tie with U.S. In addition, the Bisons were seeded second in the district tournament, just under Chagrin Falls. Other achievements include maintaining the title of sectional champs for the second year, reaching district semi-finals, being ranked one of the top sixteen teams in the state, six shutouts in a row, and, most importantly, beating the boys from Orange for the second straight year. At the end of the season, the Bisons recorded nine shutouts, just falling short of the record set the previous year. The defense allowed their opponents an average of less than one goal a game, while the offense produced an average of 2.5 goals a game. The success of the Bisons biggest soccer team ever was due to the hard work and good leadership from both coaches and senior members. Tri captains Mark Yosowitz, Steve Schneider, and Paul Ruben, and senior players Jon Gill, Jon Kleinman, and Saul Tucker.

STRINGS AND SWINGS

This year the BHS golf team had a very successful season. In recent years the team's winning percentage had slowly risen, and this year was no exception. With the help of the varsity returning members Dan Levitt, Scott Dubin, Dan Jacobs, and Michael Frayman, the team will look forward to a bright and victorious future.

The 1985-86 girl's varsity tennis team, coached by Ray Vehar, showcased a variety of talent and versatility throughout the year. The team's hard work paid off in a 3-11 season and many tremendous individual victories. The varsity female netter's hard work and durability proved the individual superiority of the Bison team. The junior varsity team, coached by Sandy Lefkowitz, should not be forgotten. They had a strong intake of members this year and a large amount of talent. This talent, in addition to hard work, shaped a winning destiny for the girl's tennis team.

THRILL OF VICTORY

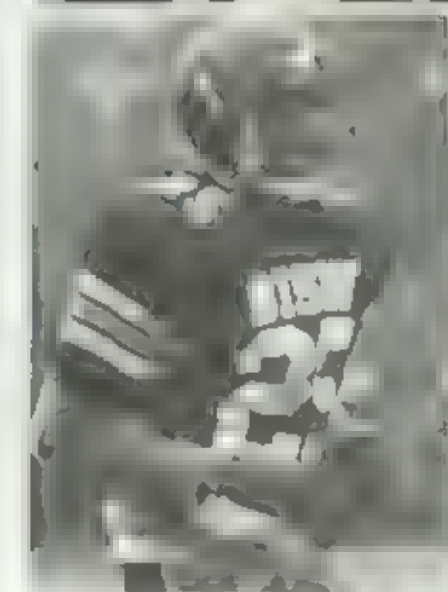

For the first time in Bison history, the 1985 Beachwood Bisons football team was victorious in their opening game. This win set the tone for the most exciting, successful season ever. Senior captains Scott Keilin, Jordy Horowitz and Shannon Silas, and head coach Joe Parella were proud of the great school and community spirit inspired by their victories. This was evident in the overflowing stands which appeared at every game. The fans cheered them on to an outstanding 8-2 record. This gave them a second place standing in the E.S.C. This noteworthy record can be attributed to the team's dedication, co-operation, and the natural athletic ability of the starting varsity players.

WET & WILD

This year's swim team did remarkably well. The boys team, coached by Garry Dunlap and led by captains Jon Kleinman and David Saltzman, practiced hours a day, and the work really paid off. With a consistently winning record, the team had much to be proud of.

The girl's team, coached by Jane Schweitzer and led by captain Tracy Drogalus, also did very well. Sophomore member Alyson Spira summed up the feelings of the team when she said, "It was a great deal of hard work, and there was a lot of pressure, but the team unity really helped us to continue working."

The diving team had an impressive season this year. Coached by David Wolkoff, both the girls and guys experimented and perfected their diving techniques. This work led them to well-earned victories.

PIN TO WIN

Quality, not quantity, was the motto of this year's wrestling team. Coach Mark Hoffman, a former wrestler from Slippery Rock College, was both extremely enthusiastic and motivating. He concentrated on each wrestler, which resulted in some outstanding achievements. Four out of five matches were won at Cardinal, but the entire match was lost due to forfeits. Every member rapidly improved, and the district tournament proved the excellent quality of Beachwood wrestlers.

The 1985-1986 basketball season will stand out in the memories of all Bison players and fans. The Aurora game, in particular, will always be remembered. Scott Keilin led the team in steals, and Bobby Melsher scored six points in the final minutes of the fourth quarter, leading the team to victory. All of the excitement was evident during the game which was crazed with scuffles, punches, and hysteria within the team and crowd. The fans saluted senior captains Eric Marks, Scott Keilin, and Mark Yosowitz, seniors Bobby Melsner, Shannon Silas, Anthony Norwood, and juniors Mike Peppers, Steve Peppers, Jeff Oliver, and Howard Titlebaum. Fan support was unbelievably strong throughout the season. The varsity, junior varsity, and freshman teams brought excitement to their fans in many heart-breaking, nail-biting, and thrilling games.

SHOOT FOR TWO

The girls basketball team worked extremely hard under coach Mark Bregar and assistant coach Peter Harvan. This year's team really gave it their all, with hours of hard practice and hard fought games. Their effort was evident on the basketball court but unfortunately not on the scoreboard, as the team experienced only one victory. The important thing, however, was that the team improved remarkably during the course of the season. All in all, the girl's basketball team accomplished a great deal this year.

WORKING UP

- 1. Find a chauffeur for homecoming.
- 2. Ask your best friend to write a note to that gorgeous guy to see if he'd say yes if you asked him to Smo-bull.
- 3. Start studying for finals now—they're only three months away.
- 4. Make friends with someone in your lunch period who has a car.
- 5. Sign up for twenty different activities (but only work on two); they look good on your transcript.
- 6. Ask mom to take you to Keweenaw for school supplies tonight—school starts in two weeks.
- 7. Rehab.
- 8. See how many times you can be kicked out of the library for the whole year this week.

Freshmen

As the freshmen began to adjust to their first year of high school, they realized that there were a variety of opportunities awaiting them. "Wow Dan, we didn't have a chess club at the middle school", was an example of freshman conversation during the beginning of the year. However, many discovered that it wouldn't be as easy as it seemed. They found that clubs and sports took a great deal of time, and yes, there was something called homework. Joe Freshman realized that such an excuse as "I can't study tonight, the Cosby Show is on", was not acceptable. However, many enthusiastic students sacrificed time to participate in activities and had a very rewarding year

TAKE CHARGE

The class of '89 proved to be a spirited class led by President Jon Stoller, Vice President David Dvorn, Secretary Jody Berk, Treasurer Josh Borstein, and class advisor Joe Burwell. The freshman class roared into the high school, captivating the auditorium with its cheers and earning a first place in the eating contest. Homecoming generated enthusiasm in the class as their banner exhibited effort and creativity. Their treasury began to grow through the car washes, bake sales, sweatshirt sales, and concessions at sporting events. Their spirit continued during extra-curricular activities while playing sports or cheering on teams. These freshman leaders (pictured right) proved their abilities in council meetings along with class representatives David Brodsky, Craig Gardner, Betsy Gordon, and Joel Saltzman. The freshman class contributed new and exciting ideas to BHS.

FRESH FACES

The phone rings, "Hello Lisa? Oh my gosh, I know it's 12 00am, but I can't sleep. Our first day of high school is tomorrow. Do you believe it? I'm so nervous. What are you wearing? I'm so glad we're not guys. We can't get thrown into the lockers! . . . or can we? Oh no, what if I get lost and I'm late to my first period class? I don't know where room 703 is! Well, I'll see you tomorrow, but if you can't sleep, call me anytime. I'll be up!" It seems that that experience is known as "the first day of high school jitters," but this year's freshman class managed to live through it, just as all past freshmen have. In fact, it proved to be quite an exciting year for them. After adjusting to that first week in a new environment, they began to realize that B.H.S. was not such a "giant" school with so many "giant" people towering over them. In fact, the freshman class was accepted into the B.H.S. population rather quickly as they made many upperclass friends and had a fun-filled year. See guys, it's not so bad!

Sophomores

Sophomore year was the beginning of a mental workout. By the second year in the high school, the class was used to the school's atmosphere and schedule. Then it was time for the work to start. Sophomores surely remembered the breeze of the warm-up as freshmen. As the work-out continued, sophomores sweat more and tried harder because they were aiming high. By the end of their sophomore year, the class of 1988 had become a big part of the school and worked to achieve many goals.

LEADERS OF THE PACK

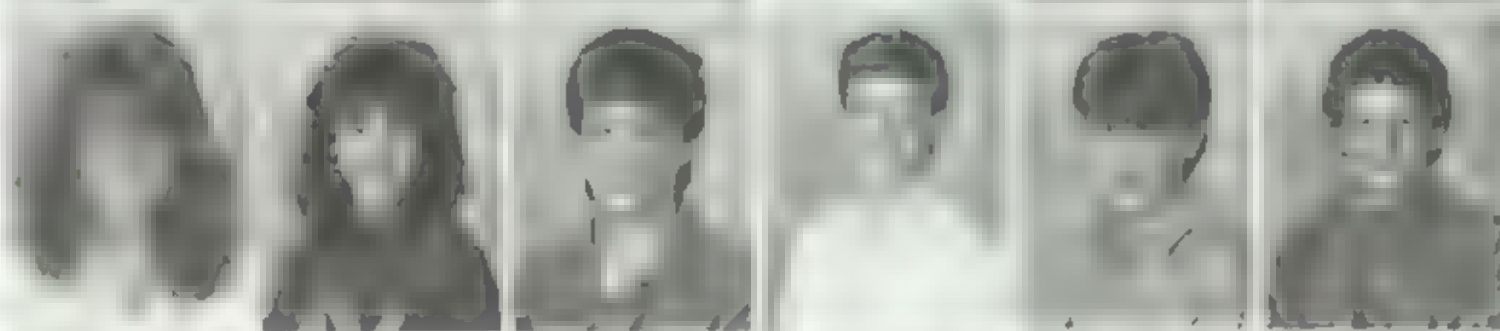

The sophomore class's student council worked very hard this year to help the class of 1988 achieve great goals. The officers and reps worked on one fundraiser after another including car washes, candy, pizza, and bake sales, and a BHS sweatshirt sale. These fundraisers not only raised our class treasury but helped to unite us in spirit. In addition to many fundraisers, our student council organized a successful United Way week and a winning Homecoming banner. The greatest success of the year was our sophomore class trip to Toronto. The leadership of the sophomore student council lead the class of 1988 to a phenomenal year

BOSOM BUDDIES

The class of 1988 was unusually united. Since they were brought together in the fifth grade, there were many fun, exciting, sad, and embarrassing moments. As the largest class in

Beachwood High School, there was a mutual feeling of friendship between the class as a whole. Through all their shared experiences, the class of '88 always stuck together as one big family that had been built up over the years

KEEPING BUSY

"Too much to do" you say?! You must be a junior. Your junior year is filled with responsibilities and pressures, and of course, tension headaches. You feel like you'll never survive English Literature with Mr. Fields or Physics with Sotsky. You come home from your job dead tired, and all you get is minimum wage. You forget to sign up for SAT's and have to stay up all night filling in tiny ovals. To top it all off, all you hear from your parents ten times a day is, "Did you start to read all those pamphlets you collected from the college fair?" It seems like you'll never survive this demanding workout, but then you think to yourself, "If I make it through this year, I'll be a senior!" and somehow you struggle through it

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

The class of 1987 proved to be a particularly active and hard working group. They have demonstrated their strong leadership abilities through their many accomplishments in various activities. In the area of student council, the Juniors gained a major portion of their funds from the fall and winter sports programs. They also conducted many fund-raisers such as M&M and Bio-pop sales led by their class officers. The class of 1987 contributed a great deal to the student council

REMEMBER WHEN?

1986—The designated graduation year for approximately 130 Beachwood students. As the class of '86 reminisced back on their younger years, they recalled wearing their incredibly cool black and gold jackets with the number "86" embroidered on the side. Yes, in fourth grade, if one did not have those stylish jackets telling everyone that in just eight years they'd be off to college, they were totally uncool. But suddenly sixth grade approached. Wind breaker Bison jackets became childish. I mean, after all, they were now in the middle school. Imagine that . . . now they entered a giant school, where music played to let them know it was time to change classes. And wow . . . real letter grades! Before they knew it, eighth grade was steadily coming to an end, and the class of '86 was on their way to becoming big, giant freshmen in the high school. Oh boy, now it was time to take up a sport so that they could get a letterman's jacket with that big 86 printed on the side. I mean face it, you're not with it unless you have one of those. When we look back on all those memories and so much more, we wonder, "Where did all those years go?"

WORKING OUT TOGETHER

Going through four years in a small school like Beachwood, having only 450 students, made it very easy to meet and make friends. Most B.H.S. friendships began as early as first grade, yet some were made and reinforced as the senior year commenced. Whether being friends meant shopping at Beachwood Place, playing soccer together, or just talking in the cafeteria, the bonds that brought the class of 1986 together were only strengthened as the high school years drew to a close.

WORKING FOR THE PEOPLE

LLeading the way to success was the only direction the class of 1986 ever took. From conducting the student council to playing football, the seniors were determined to take BHS. to the top. The last year of high school involved many events: prom, senior slide show, senior awards banquet and assembly, graduation, and, of course, senior cut day. All of these activities required a great deal of hard work and dedication on the part of the class officers. These activities made our senior year the most exciting and best year ever.

SPIRIT WORKS FOR SENIORS

B-I-S-O-N-S! A chant we've all heard many times, but this is just the beginning of spirit. Spirit was much more than just football games and cheerleaders, it was everyone and every activity that involved members of the class of 1986. From baseball to debate, drill team to introspect, Levi's to Guess, and Genesis to the Grateful dead; these were the things that made us unique, set us apart, yet brought us together

"MINE IS BIGGER than yours," shouts Jon Goldstein to Richie Weiss.

THE LARGE AMOUNTS of money brought in by Homecoming ticket sales generates much spirit in Chairperson Annie Graham and Andy Levitt, Carey Arnold, and Stuart Bassett.

I JUST WORK HERE

The idea of going to college without any spending money was frightening to many seniors. A common way that members of the Class of '86 avoided this catastrophe was by getting a job. Whether it was just a part-time job at the local McDonald's or a Higbee's Department Store, or just working for mom and dad's business after school, the extra money earned made getting clothes, cars, or gas just a little easier

DON'T QUOTE ME ON THAT

"Shut up Hartstein It's finally over What a long strange trip it's been He who says the least knows the most Some people spend their whole lives trying to get ahead, fortunately I already have one We're going all the way Life's a b---ch and then you die Remember the days of the old school yard I have seen the moments of my greatness flicker, I have seen the eternal footman hold my coat and snicker It's been real and it's been fun, but it hasn't been real fun Variation implies integration If I could do it all again—I wouldn't All you get to keep are the memories, you've got to make the good ones last Wanna party? When I look back on how it was in years gone by and the good times that I've had makes today seem rather sad, so much has changed Class of '86 the class of champions I've never been to Cedar Point Yesterday starts tomorrow which starts today Life's a b---ch and then you marry one Mrs Hackett --Take your point and shove it up your Pencils down When I think back on all the crap I learned in high school, it's a wonder I can think at all We are the people our parents warned us about . . . Shut up Hartstein . . . "

OFF WE GO!

As the class of '86 began their senior year of high school, many questions began to enter their minds "Where do I want to go to school?" "What do I want to do with my life?" "What should I write on my essay?" Yes, the tension began as early as September for many BHS seniors

"HEY! LEAVE ME alone--I'm Buckeye bound!"

"ARE YOU KIDDING? Go out of state? I'd miss my dog too much!"

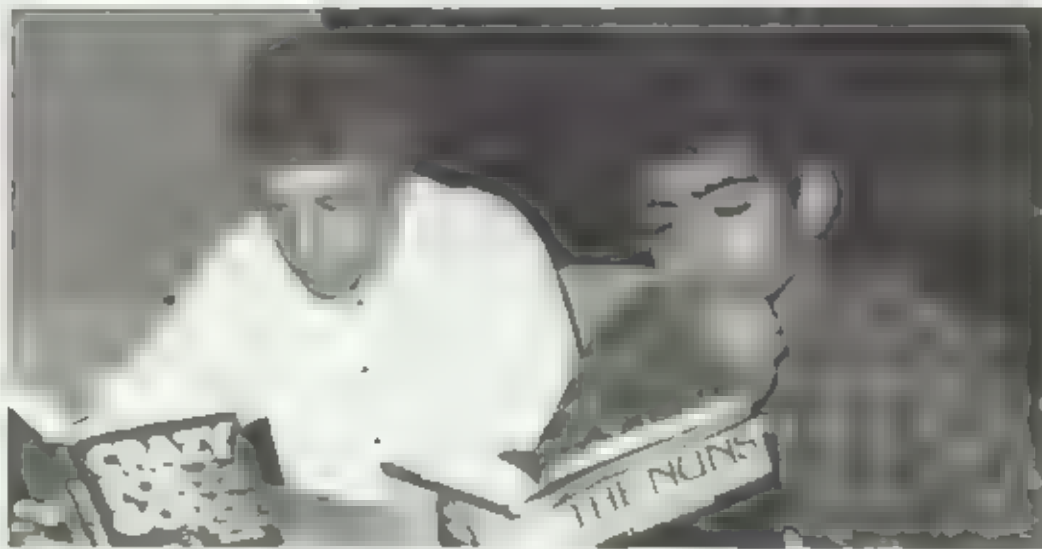

ALTHOUGH JON RATNER does not plan on attending Cornell, he figures the studying can't hurt.

Many rigorous weekends were spent on the long process of applying to such schools as Boston U, Miami U, U. of Michigan, Emory, and Princeton. Of course, there were many who didn't have to worry so much. A familiar comment was, "I know I'm going to Ohio State so who cares? I'm not worried." But for the others, each day brought fear and anticipation as the mailman brought various letters of admission, rejection, and deferral. Eventually, the hardest part ended. Whether it was Wisconsin, Purdue, or U. of South Florida, everyone had finally settled on a school and was ready to prepare for life at college.

COACHING

7:45—First and foremost—COFFEE!

1st period—Walk in bleary-eyed and try to ignore those two troublemakers in the back of the room who are making repetitive noises with their lips.

2nd period—Hall duty.

3rd period—Apologize for not grading the test (St. Pischere was on last night.)

4th period—Show the movie on the material they learned three chapters ago (It just came in).

5th period—Lunch duty.

6th period—Lunch-visit to the teacher's lounge.

7th period—Try to remain calm when Joe Simcoe asks what chapter the class is on the day before the test.

8th period—Revise your revised lesson plans.

9th period—Tell the class to stop looking at the clock as you inconspicuously glance at it every five minutes.

2:50—Try to make it to your car before your entire 9th period class ambushes you and asks:

A. Do we have to know this for the test?

B. Will there be any more on tomorrow's test?

C. Are we really having a test tomorrow?

D. Will you please extend the essay until next _____?

STAR COACHES

The goal at Beachwood High School has always been to meet the needs of students at all levels. The faculty this year did their best to live up to these expectations. They were always found helping students—from phys. ed. to physics. The staff not only tried to teach these subjects to their students, but they strived to make them responsible for their own educations. They attended many meetings this year to investigate new possibilities and techniques for the future. The spirited staff was not only there to help students in their daily work but also to lend a hand in searching for a better tomorrow

SEE HOW HAPPY THESE GIRLS WERE?

Due to certain "complications", Darcy, Marla and Margie were recently relocated to a much "happier" place. Their life of layouts, copy, captions, pictures, staff, photographers, and deadlines has been terminated. They are now a part of a more simple and tranquil society surrounded by the natural beauty of the outdoors. In this "home", they will be given sufficient opportunity to "ponder" their actions of the past nine months. Fortunately for all of us, they were able to complete the yearbook before they were sent on their little rest period.

This ad was graciously paid for by the families of these girls. Through advertising, they hope to explain why Darcy, Marla, and Margie have been "indisposed" for the past month. Thank you.

SWEATING IT OUT

After looking and reading through the yearbook, it becomes obvious that Beachwood students are not just a bunch of laid-back kids. They are, in fact, a hardworking, energetic group. Almost every student is involved within the school, and not many can keep up with the busy activity that takes place. Beachwood students are constantly stretching towards their goals in their mental, physical, or social workouts. As you can see, each day students take part in the strenuous BHS Workout

"YOU STUPID FRESHMAN!" shouts Dennis Lockshin to Eric Weisberg.

RACHEL NOVEMBER AND Lisa Brodsky pose pretty for the camera.

COACH I. HURRIES to typing class before first period.

SAUNDRA FRIED GIGGLES shyly for the camera. She doesn't notice that she is neglecting the college rep.

PHEW . . .

Well people, that's all there is for now. Don't you feel good? You can put the phone back on the hook. These exercises should, when done thoroughly, provide a sense of excitement, nostalgia, and accomplishment. So whenever you need a pick-me-up or you just want to stroll down memory lane, you can turn to your 1986 Oculus. Thank you for participating in the BHS Workout.

LISA WEISMAN CONCENTRATES on the incredible feat of walking backwards on a balance beam.

JORDY HOROWITZ GETS himself mentally ready for the tug-of-war.
